Renovated lobby lounge, café and new Residence Club at New World Shanghai Hotel

Sydney-based Diana Simpson Design has redefined the hotel's lobby space and Nong Café. With eight-metre floor-to-ceiling windows and Chinese lattice-work screens, the lobby offers a serene space for guests to observe the bustling city scene outdoors while enjoying coffees or meeting with friends. The adjacent Cha Lounge offers a quietly elegant environment where guests are invited to enjoy refreshments and appreciate the art of traditional Chinese tea.

Located on the second floor, Nong Café is a light and airy self-service market-style cafe with open kitchen stations, creating an interactive environment for diners to observe chefs preparing dishes à la minute. Small, freshly made portions encourage diners to “graze” and make multiple visits to a variety of food counters.

Residence Club guestrooms have been renovated to include stylish furniture, lighting and wall and floor treatments, as well as enhanced bathrooms. The Residence Club Living Room on 38th floor features a panoramic view of Zhongshan Park extending to Pudong.

New World Dalian Hotel's versatile meeting space and new Residence Club Living Room

The 300-square-metre Liaoning Room, designed by Tokyo-based NAO Taniyama & Associates, offers flexible space for exclusive banquets, special occasions, intimate wedding parties, high-end meetings and corporate events of up to 90 guests. It features a dedicated reception and foyer area, separate “break-out” room, an integrated buffet and coffee area, and adjacent relaxation room with sofas and television which can also serve as a bridal preparation room.

The Residence Club Living Room is designed with modern furnishings, creating a natural and warm ambience. Located on the 22nd floor, it overlooks the bustling Ren Min shopping district below and the busy harbour, and provides an intimate and relaxing space for Residence Club floors' guests.
